Welcome Athenians!

My name is Jennifer Ward and I am the President of Chalon's Associated Student Body for the 2009-2010 school year. As another school year begins, I wanted to personally invite you to attend our ASB meeting every Thursday from 1-2 and all of our events this year. It is my goal to ensure that students have a role in your student government. We currently have a couple open positions and if you are interested in applying, please pick up an application in the Women's Leadership office.

This fall we have a lot in store for you, we have the annual Charity Ball in October, Family and Friends weekend, the Blood Drive, and the Lighting of the Circle to name a few big events. I also want to encourage you to attend your class meetings each month and get important information specifically for your class! Are you a commuter? We have commuter class meetings too! Do you have a question or concern about something on campus? Contact us and we will find an answer for you!

If you have any questions, feel free to contact me via email at jennward@mymmsc.la.edu. Also find us on Facebook (search "Chalon ASB") for more information on our upcoming events! Welcome back and I am looking forward to another amazing school year!

Sincerely,
Jennifer Ward
President, Chalon ASB

Safe Driving and our Neighbors

Please be courteous to our Chalon neighbors. The streets leading to the campus are narrow, and for the safety of you and the neighbors, it is important to follow the posted speed limit. When you leave campus, remember to come to a COMPLETE STOP at the stop sign and turn right at the exit, taking Chalon Road to Bundy Drive. Security will be enforcing and issuing fines for violations. Parking on campus is a privilege and comes with a responsibility to drive safely and courteously on campus and in the surrounding neighborhood.

TIP OF THE WEEK by Counseling & Psychological Services

Feeling depressed? Anxious? Stuck? Emotions like these may be interfering with your school work, your relationships, and life in general. Depression is very treatable. One way to treat depression is to find out if the way you are thinking is working for or against you. We all make assumptions about the world, people, and ourselves. In the case of depression, our assumptions are often based on the fear that we won't get our needs met, such as our need to feel loved, to be able to trust others, and to believe that the future will turn out well. Negative and positive thoughts about these things can profoundly affect our emotions and behaviors. CPS (1st Floor, Humanities, x4114) can help you recognize and shift your negative thought patterns. On October 27th come TEST YOUR MOOD as part of National Depression Screening Day at The Circle from 1-3pm.

Study Abroad FAQ's

Getting the green light!

The only thing you have to do is earn a 3.0 cumulative GPA, and junior or senior class standing. Doheny sophomores may apply the semester prior to transferring to Chalon and earning junior standing. Students should also discuss their individual academic goals with their advisors to ensure timely degree progress and completion. Students can often fulfill general studies requirements while studying abroad, and many departments accept courses from abroad toward major or minor requirements.

How much does it cost?

The cost varies by program. Some programs have fees in addition to tuition and airfare. You should also consider the currency exchange rate. This may influence your study away destination. There are plenty of scholarships available. The Mount will allow students to take 40% of their Mount financial aid with them when they study abroad. How could you not consider it? C'mon!

Advisement Period

for Spring 2010 Classes is Here!
October 19– November 6

Don't wait until the last possible moment to schedule an appointment.
Check WebAdvisor, Student Profile section, for your advisor assignment!

Be prepared when you meet with your advisor. Here are some quick tips:

Freshmen Are you on track to become a sophomore? You'll need to complete a total of 30 units by the end of summer, to progress to sophomore status. Don't put off your math requirement, sign up for a class next semester.	Sophomores Is studying abroad an option for you? Discuss this with your advisor. Are there courses you should take during the spring semester to be on track with major and GE requirements? Run a Program Evaluation from WebAdvisor to check your requirements. Don't put off your math requirement, sign up for a class next semester. Check your math placement score on WebAdvisor, in the Test Summary section.
Juniors Now's the time to discuss your outstanding requirements with your advisor. Run a Program Evaluation from WebAdvisor, and take it with you to your appointment. You still have time to take a course in the spring... don't get caught off guard! Almost done with your requirements? Do you want to add a minor? Don't delay! The deadline to add a minor is the end of your junior year.	Seniors Are you on track to graduate? Run a Program Evaluation from WebAdvisor to check your requirements and review it with your faculty advisor. Your faculty advisors have wonderful insight about your chosen field. Ask questions about graduate school, post-baccalaureate programs, externships, and summer opportunities. Stay connected to your Mount Faculty Advisors.

A note on the Wall

This hand written sign was reportedly found on the wall of Mother Teresa's room:

People are unreasonable, illogical, and self-centered; forgive them anyway.
If you are kind, people may accuse you of selfish, ulterior motives; be kind anyway.

If you are successful, you will win some false friends, and some true enemies, be successful anyway.

What you spend years building, someone could destroy overnight; build anyway.

If you find serenity and happiness, others may be jealous; be happy anyway.

The good you do today, people will often forget tomorrow; do good anyway.

Give the world the best you have, and it may never be enough;
give the world your best anyway.

In the final analysis, it is between you and God.

It was never between you and them anyway.

CPS Tip of the Week:

Gratitude is an emerging focus in the study of mental health. Those who practice gratitude report higher levels of physical health, cope better when faced with stress, and are more resilient when challenges arise. People who are purposefully grateful feel more connected to others, feel positive emotions more intensely, and are more optimistic. You can develop the practice of gratitude by writing a gratitude list, expressing your thanks to other people, and thinking about what makes you grateful.

Contact Counseling and Psychological Services to help start your practice of gratitude or to address other concerns (310-954-4114).

Tip of the Week from Counseling & Psychological Services

Students often want to feel, think, or act differently but don't know how to make changes or how to decide what to change. Prochaska and DiClemente (1992) have identified the following steps in the process of change:

- Pre-contemplation: have not yet identified the need or desire for change
- Contemplation: thinking about change but may not have identified what or how to change
- Preparation: taking small steps towards getting ready to change (talking to people about it or finding out how others have changed)
- Action: in the process of changing & dealing with the difficulties and benefits of change
- Maintenance: finding ways to continue to strengthen your new way of being
- Relapse: testing what it feels like to return to old patterns

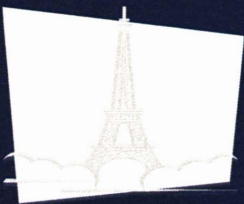

Please contact Counseling and Psychological Services (x4114) to receive support in any stage of this process.

Submit your activities, events or announcements to the Chalon Student News and keep the campus informed!

CANDLEMAS
Tuesday, Feb. 2
Today is a good day to tell someone why they are the light of Christ in your life! Why? Because we are celebrating the feast that commemorates Jesus' presentation in the Temple and his recognition there by Simeon as "a light of revelation to the gentiles" (see Luke 2:32).

Body Image Is a State of Mind

Most people believe that body image difficulties associated with weight, size, and shape can be fixed by making physical changes. Research shows that body image problems may be temporarily lifted after weight loss, but the negative thoughts return in equal or worse amounts. Negative body image can lead to an underlying low level of unhappiness, binge eating, substance use, social anxiety, and more. These negative thoughts need to be understood in the context of powerful economic forces, history, culture, and family. It is the thoughts that need to be changed...not the body. Negative thoughts limit people much more than body weight, size, or shape ever could. Your self-perception is powerful. Your body is as beautiful as you think it is. To discuss body image or any other personal concerns, please contact Counseling and Psychological Services (x4114).

"Tip of the Week: Preparing for the Graduation Transition"

Just like any other major life transition, graduating from college can bring lots of changes. Graduation brings a lot of positive changes, like new opportunities, a feeling of accomplishment and success, and gaining well-deserved respect from your family, peers, and professors. You will grow as a person and move forward in your career, life goals, and relationships. You may also be concerned about the challenges that lie ahead of you during this time of transition. Remind yourself of all the challenges you have overcome and appreciate where you are as you prepare to graduate from college. If you can learn to embrace these changes and be aware of the possible stress that this transition can bring, you will feel more prepared and able to cope with the difficulties you may encounter. Take time to reflect on your accomplishments, the joys you have experienced, and the growth you have made. Congratulate yourself!! If you would like to discuss graduation concerns or any other personal concerns, please contact Counseling and Psychological Services (x4114).

What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us.

- Ralph Waldo Emerson

Reducing Test Anxiety

Some of the stress we experience before a test is appropriate - it motivates us to prepare adequately. However, sometimes excessive anxiety interferes with our ability to study and must be addressed. Here are some tips to decrease test anxiety:

- * Organize your material to be learned and the tools you need to study.
- * Think about the ways you will study (i.e., note cards, study group, reading, etc.) and visualize yourself using those methods, initiate plans to use the materials (call people and set a time, buy note cards, write down exactly what you need to learn), then implement your plan (open the book, show up for the study group, make your note cards).
- * Catch yourself when you think fearfully about the outcome. This is thinking negatively about the future and increases excessive anxiety. Instead, tell yourself, “I am preparing.” This is staying positive in the present. “I am preparing,” includes time spent visualizing, making plans to study, gathering materials, and self-care such as sleeping and eating healthfully.
- * During the test, if you forget an answer, think of things associated with the question. Our brains are organized so that that if you think of concepts or objects associated with the topic, you will approach the answer.
- * Give yourself time to allow your neurons to fire! There is no reward for turning in a test early.
- * If you find yourself becoming panicky during a test, breathe in with a count of 3 and out with a count of 6.

This will calm your body and mind like a mini-vacation. After the test, review your preparation method. Part of your education is learning how to accomplish your goals, not just learning your class material! To address test anxiety or any other emotional difficulties, please contact Counseling and Psychological Services, Humanities 1st Floor, ext. 4114.
